

To whom it may concern:

I received information that the FCC is considering expanding its service in a way that would possibly make it to where we could lose KLOVE radio.

K-LOVE radio is one of the few stations out there that you can listen to without having to worry what your kids will hear. There radio station broadcasts clean, uplifting music FREE of cussing, violence, sexual content, gang-style rapping, etc. Our community is lucky to have K-LOVE radio.

If K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster, chances are it would be replaced by a similar station that already exists out there in large numbers, such as country, R&B, rap, rock, etc. A lot of this type of radio (R&B, rap, rock) is very sexual and violent if you listen to the words. Our children need to have a radio station they can listen to where they will be encourage and uplifted. K-LOVE Radio encourages our kids to speak the truth, do the right thing, and live a moral life. What more can we ask of a radio station.

If K-LOVE goes off the air and it is replaced by another rap or R&B station, our kids (and adults) will not have the encouragement they currently get by listening to K-LOVE. Listening to a station that supports morals, will help our citizens to do the right thing, to stay off drugs, to not steal, but most importantly, to follow God. Would you rather have your kids listening to gang-type music or a Christian radio station? Would you rather they listen to music with strong sexual content or would you rather they be encouraged to wait until they are married? The morals that speak loudly through the music encourage our kids to do what is right. If they are doing what is right, they are not out breaking into cars, using drugs, or getting arrested. We should all want our kids (and us) to listen to a christian station like K-LOVE.

I know I am only one person, but I hope you will understand what I have tried to express. I like many types of music and listen to other types of music on occasion, but I think there should be more stations like K-LOVE, not less.

Thank you for taking the time to read this email.
